

I was a trailblazer, but it didn't There were a lot of decisions many fun times.

Chauvinism was rampant, I had sexism thwarted my job growth writing was on the wall. I needed and so I founded the first center artists and writers. It was the exciting and turbulent times.

Starting my business, Creative Manhattan in the 70s, brought Those challenges were amplified older man with three teenage to two children of my own. The 70s, legal battles, office politics dynamics, are the same issues women in business then and now story to inspire and educate shedding a fresh light on those

Marilyn Howard worked Advertising before launching in New York in 1970. Her which connected business writers, became the first internet in 1997. She graduated from Syracuse University.

Memoir • Biography • Autobiography •

com

The Writing on the Wall

Remarkable story of a woman breaking through the glass ceiling in the male dominated 60s and 70s.

Marilyn Howard